

Welcome to Jr. Detectives!

Each week of our series we will think and act like detectives:

- Imagine you are a detective! Get your notebook and pencil ready!
- View a motivational spotlight to learn more about the job of a detective
- Look at our clues for the week
- Investigate and search-this can be done via books, newspapers or articles online or in person with a grown up as the clues will lead to somewhere in the community. (or explore in person after you think you've solved it!)
- Do a Just for Fun! activity
- Share with Miss Windy by registering for a Friday Show & Tell session by clicking on our event calendar on July 24th or 31st, August 7th, 14th or 21st at www.manliuslibrary.org

Imagine you are a detective! Think what a detective does. What skills and actions do they take?

Motivation Spotlight- This week's spotlight is keeping a keen eye on the details. How one person sees things versus another person can be different and communicated differently. While this doesn't specifically solve this week's clues, it is an important skill for a good detective. <https://kapwi.ng/c/sTqBjaA6> (do not need to download or sign in, just click on the play arrow to begin viewing)

Clues-

1. The terrain is woodland and wetland.
2. It was designated a National Recreational Trail by the National Parks Service.
3. It's Latitude 43.096068308299998 & Longitude -75.829508625399995

Just for Fun Activity-Imagine a career as a detective. You might have the skills to become part of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA)!?! Check out the cia.gov website or specifically from the Spy Kids section at <https://www.cia.gov/kids-page/index.html> I really enjoyed learning more through the CIA K-9 cam for a VIP tour at <https://youtu.be/tmiiiNmzXj0>
